A Pleasant Surprise

I've been pleasantly surprised at the good response I've been getting from gun shops & gun-related businesses. They're taking me up on my offer to make & run a Web site for them for only $100 per year. It fills a niche, getting more gun shops online. A Web site also lets shops keep their customers updated and helps them accept more mail orders.

I currently have several Web sites still under development, but you can now see the official Web site I do for World Class Gun Shows, Inc. - promoters of the Indy 1500 Gun & Knife Shows - at www.gunfax.com/wcgs.

Self-Defense Questions & Answers

Is it better to fight back, or not? What can I learn in a few hours or days? How can I keep from being carjacked? What should I do if carjacked? How can I prevent purse snatching? Should I let him take my purse? What do my children really need to know about protecting themselves? Do stun guns work? Where can I get training? How do I decide what kind of gun to get?

These questions and many more are answered at the AWARE Web site at www.aware.org/faqselfd.htm.

You can contact AWARE at P.O. Box 242, Bedford, MA 01730-0242, call toll-free at 877-672-9273 or email to info@aware.org.

Women and Children First!

"The Battle of All Mothers"

The Second Amendment Sisters, a grassroots self-defense advocacy organization, has announced plans for the "Armed Informed Mothers' March" (A.I.M.M.) to counter the anti-gun "Million Mom March" planned for Mothers' Day, 2000. A.I.M.M. will take place Sunday May 14, 2000, on the Mall in Washington, DC.

"The purpose of A.I.M.M. is to get concerned women together and let Congress know that we won't stand for having our right to defend our families ripped away," said Kimberly J. Watson, one of the founders of the group. "We won't let this assault go on any longer."

"Women deserve to have every option available to them when it comes to protecting themselves from violence," said Watson. "Any further erosion of the Second Amendment serves only to harm women and their families. Violent criminals don't care how many new laws are made for the children - in fact, a crush of new laws will make it that much easier for criminals to take advantage of children, and their mothers."

The A.I.M. march is only one project of SAS. They also have a good Web site with good links, and it's full of resources, many of which are available by mail, too.

For more information, contact the Second Amendment Sisters, 18484 Preston Rd., Suite 102#141, Dallas, TX 75252, (877) 271-6216, see them online at www.SAS-AIM.org, or e-mail them at moms4guns@yahoo.com.

Seeking a suspect in a botched pawn shop holdup, Huntsville, Ala., police didn't have to look far before finding the man's vehicle - it was parked in front of the store with his daily "to do" list inside that, incredibly, included the reminder to "Rob pawn shop". The man had allegedly entered the store, asked owner John Dempsey to show him some stereo equipment and then, as Dempsey turned away, stabbed him with a knife. Dempsey pulled his .32-cal. handgun and, after chasing his assailant - who stopped long enough to inflict additional stab wounds - fired a shot that found its

WANTED: 2 Gun Prohibitionists ("Gun Control Advocates") for public debate and panel discussion approximately two hours in length. mark. Police later apprehended the man and charged him with robbery and attempted murder. (The Huntsville Times, Huntsville, AL, 9/9/99)

An 18-year-old ne'er-do-well who allegedly kicked in the door to Laurie Boykin's Auburn, Ala., home one afternoon in a robbery attempt couldn't have known his shenanigans would prove an enormous pain in his rear. Boykin's response to the threat on her safety came in the form of a single well-placed shot to the intruder's buttocks. Police later nabbed the suspect at a nearby medical center after he apparently hightailed it away from the scene by hitching a ride with a passing motorist. (Ledger-Enquirer, Columbus, GA, 9/8/99)

A Snohomish County, Wash., condominium owner, his son and a neighbor were at home one evening when a man burst in through a second-story glass door. That the 230-lb. intruder had accomplished his extraordinary feat after having painted his face and feet white only intensified their fright. The deranged man was finally halted with several shots from the homeowner's firearm, but continued to struggle with emergency personnel while being transported for medical treatment. (Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Seattle, WA, 11/19/99)

Quotes to Note

"We have the greatest opportunity the world has ever seen, as long as we remain honest – which will be as long as we can keep the attention of our people alive. If they once become inattentive to public affairs, you and I, and Congress and Assemblies, judges and governors would all become wolves."

- Thomas Jefferson

"It does not require a majority to prevail, but an irate, tireless minority keen to set brush fires in people's minds."

- Samuel Adams

"It is not the function of our Government to keep the citizen from falling into error; it is the function of the citizen to keep the Government from falling into error."

- US Supreme Court, in American Communications Association v. Douds, 339 U.S. 382, 442

"When we violate our standards, the danger is that we may wind up changing our standards."

Sleeping with the Enemy?

www.SocialFunds.com

Are you investing in funds that support gun control? At SocialFunds.com, investment funds are rated by their record of "social responsibility".

On their home page, click on the green "Funds" button. Then on the next page under "Compare all Socially Responsible Funds", click the link marked "Social Issues". In the resulting chart, in the column titled "Weapons", a "P" means that the fund seeks out companies with a "positive" record on weapons issues, and an "X" means that the company avoids companies with a "poor" record on weapons issues.

So I presume that any funds which have a "P" or an "X" under "Weapons" would oppose firearms. If you find that you have investments with any of these funds and if you decide to pull out of them, please be sure to write them a thoughtful letter telling them why you're leaving. Heck - mail them a copy of this month's GunFAX, too!

Private Party Gun Sales

Most States "allow" their citizens to make private party gun sales to their fellow State citizens without fees or paperwork. Private Party Gun Sales is a Web site dedicated to helping private citizens trade guns legally among themselves by providing a forum in which people can post classifieds to others that live within their home State. See the site at: <http://server6.ezboard.com/bprivatepartygunsales>

Guns in the Media

"I'm Dr. Laura & I've got you covered!"

Dr. Laura, the famed radio talk show host, has been to the shooting range! Her show's focus has changed recently to one of dealing with moral dilemmas instead of the usual on-air psychotherapy. She's on the Right morally, and looking politically better the more I hear her.

If you can get online, you can hear her discuss her trip to the range, including how she nagged someone there for violating one of the safety rules.

You'll need Windows Media Player or RealPlayer (free from www.Real.com) to hear the audio clip. I urge you to thank her for her approach as well as her apparent commitment to true gun safety. Her site is at www.drlaura.com or you can call 1-800-DRLAURA.

COA is a non-profit organization that has created and is coordinating an ongoing national pro-firearms, pro-self defense rights media campaign. So far, their hard-hitting radio ads have run in 41 states.
